Smart Set Continues Parties for Duke of Abruzzi.

LUNCHEON AT COWLES HOME

With Italian Ambassador, Baron Mayor des Planches, He Is Guest of Honor at Tea Given by Mrs. Boardman, Miss Boardman, and Mrs. Crane—Theater Party at Belasco.

A round of entertainments marked yesterday, the third day of the Duke of Abruzzi's visit. He lunched at the home of Rear Admiral and Mrs. Cowles, in N street. In the company was also the Italian Ambassador, Baron Mayor des Planches, and several other congenial spirits were invited to meet the young nobleman.

While the duke and the ambassador were luncheon with Rear Admiral and Mrs. Cowles, the duke's aid, Lieut. Negretto entertained Signor Montagna and Signor Centaro, of the embassy personnel, at luncheon at the Willard.

The Duke of Abruzzi and the Italian Ambassador, Baron Mayor, were entertained in the afternoon at a tea by Mrs. William F. Boardman, at her home in P street. Her daughters, Miss Boardman and Mrs. Crane, the latter of whom is now able to be in society again, assisted in the courtesies of the afternoon.

At the home of Senator and Mrs. Stephen B. Elkins last night a dinner, followed by a theater party, was given for the duke by the young daughter of the house, Miss Katherine Elkins. The party later occupied two boxes at the Belasco Theater to see the "Gay Lord Quex."

Mrs. Elkins was gowned last night in a beautiful cream satin, with which she wore numerous magnificent jewels. At the theater she wore over her shoulders a maroon cape edged with a deep fall of lace. In the box with her, among others, was Miss Alice Warder, most becomingly gowned in a deep pink crepe de chine, elaborately embellished with corsage and sleeve trimming of lace. In her hair she wore a very dark red rose. The adjoining box was Miss Elkins and the Duke of Abruzzi and others of the party. Miss Elkins' gown was a beautiful creation of painted tulle, a white background figured with pink roses. The bodice was almost entirely of lace, trimmed with motifs of pale blue chiffon. In the other adjoining box was the Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Bacon, who had, among others of their guests, Signor Montagna, counselor of the Italian Embassy. Mrs. Bacon was gowned in black velvet, the décolleté bodice edged with steel passementerie and lace.

After the play the company returned to the Elkins home, in K street, where they were joined by about fifty more persons, and an informal dance was enjoyed.

In the party, among others, were the Italian Ambassador, Baron Mayor, the Postmaster General and Mrs. von L. Meyer, the Minister of the French Embassy, the British Ambassador, Her Majesty's Secretary of State and Mrs. Bacon, the Third Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Huntington Wilson, Miss Warder, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. George Cabot Lodge, Mr. and Mrs. Larz Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Story, Mr. Lindsay, of the British Embassy, Her Royal Highness, the German Ambassador, Lieut. Pieter, naval attaché of the Italian Embassy, and Mme. Pieter, Signor Montagna and Signor Centaro, of the Italian Embassy, Viscount de Chambray and Capt. Fournier, of the French Embassy, Baron Ambrosio and Baron Haymerle, of the Austrian Embassy; M. de Thiel and M. de Siebert, of the Russian Embassy; the Netherlands Minister and Mme. van Swinderen, Miss Isabelle May and Mr. Henry May, Jr., and the duke's aid, Lieut. Negretto.

The duke will visit Mount Vernon this morning, and will, with his own hands, place on the tomb of Washington a beautiful wreath of flowers.

Mrs. Arthur Ramsey and the members of the art class of Fairmont Seminary gave a tea yesterday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock. A competitive exhibition of the work of the first-year students marked the occasion, and Mrs. N. B. Scott, wife of Senator Scott, of West Virginia, judged the merit of the examples of the various styles of work and awarded prizes.

Mrs. Scott also assisted Mrs. Ramsey and the young ladies of the art class in receiving their friends.

Miss Olive Halsey Seward has closed her house, in Nineteenth street, and gone to Colorado to spend the summer with friends.

Senator John W. Daniel and Mrs. Daniel, who have spent the past week in the city, returned Sunday to their home at Lynchburg, Va.

Senator and Mrs. N. B. Scott, who are remaining in Washington through the month of May, will leave the latter part of the week for West Point, where they will spend a week attending the graduation exercises of the Military Academy.

The Controller of the Currency and Mrs. William Barrett Ridgely returned to their apartment, at the Portland, yesterday from the Patuxent Club, where they spent the week-end as the guests of Gen. Buchanan.

Mr. and Mrs. Larz Anderson will entertain a party aboard their yacht to-day in honor of the Duke of Abruzzi.

SANG IN A GOOD CAUSE.

Of all the attractions at "Friendship" Friday and Saturday, for sweet charity's sake, none was quite so artistic as the song recital given by Herr Edgar Oberstetter, of the Grand Royal Opera, Munich, for the benefit of the Homeopathic Hospital. A sketch of this distinguished visitor appeared in The Washington Herald a few weeks ago. He no longer sings professionally, having turned his attention to work of composition, and prior to the fate at "Friendship" had not been heard publicly during his stay. But he was most ready and gracious in giving his services to the good cause of the Homeopathic Hospital. Indeed, he postponed his departure in order to assist at the fete, and the proceeds amounted to several hundred dollars. He is sailing for home next week. He is a modest, accomplished gentleman, and his departure will be regretted by countless friends he has made in Washington.

few months abroad, principally in Italy, spent a week in Paris prior to sailing for his home, in this country.

Mrs. John R. McLean had as her guests for the fete at "Friendship" last week and for the week-end Mrs. Horatio Slater and Miss Esther Slater, of Boston.

Mrs. Bonaparte, accompanying her as far as New York, on her way to Cazenovia, where she will spend the summer. Mrs. Newbold Edgar is also a guest of Mrs. Bonaparte.

Miss Mary Hemphstone has returned from the Norfolk Navy Yard, where she has been visiting the family of Capt. Cowles on board the Franklin. While there she was extensively entertained, being among the guests at the dances on the British flag ship Good Hope and the Italian flag ship Varese.

The marriage of Miss Grace Milton Irvine, daughter of Mrs. William Irvine, and Richard Irving McKenney, U. S. A., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. McKenney, of St. Paul, Minn., and this city, will take place to-morrow afternoon in St. John's Church, Brooklyn. The maid of honor is to be Miss Florence Irvine, and the bridesmaids Miss Anna Francis, Miss Elizabeth Mackay, Miss Alice Rose, and Miss Marguerite Zimmerman. Messrs. Allen Grey Hoyt, of Manhattan; Dean Edmunds, and Joseph E. Freeman, of Manhattan; and William H. Broughton, of Washington, will be ushers, and the best man, Capt. B. Poe Bishop, U. S. A. It is to be a small and simple wedding, cards to the church being limited to relatives and close friends of the bride and bridegroom.

Mrs. Manderson, wife of former Senator Manderson, of Nebraska, who is one of the regents of Mount Vernon, came to Washington Saturday from Mount Vernon, and is confined to her bed by illness. She will probably be detained here several days and may be obliged to miss Governor's Day to-day at Mount Vernon.

SWANSON DUE TO-DAY

Virginia Governor to Make Mt. Vernon Pilgrimage.

REGENTS WILL RECEIVE HIM

Officers of Ladies' Association in Charge of Washington's Home Are Holding Daily Sessions—Are Assigned to Rooms in Famous Mansion According to States.

When the average visitor to Mount Vernon strolls along the neat brick walk leading to the west entrance of Washington's old home, halting in the shade of one of the many beautiful big trees that spread their green canopy overhead, to admire the quaint and interesting outbuildings or to peer into the spacious green-gebed garden, the first thought to take verbal form is the inevitable, "How beautifully they keep the place up."

But in nine cases out of ten the visitor, if asked for the personification of "they," would hesitate and be at a loss to tell who was represented by the pronoun.

For the past few days, however, such visitors have had the opportunity of personal acquaintance with "them" at "their" work, for since Wednesday last Washington's home has sheltered twenty-two sweet-faced, gray-haired little ladies. In whose province as regent and vice regents of the Mount Vernon Ladies' Association of the Union lies control of the work of preserving this historic shrine, the Mecca of the American tourist at home.

Representing twenty-one States, each with some particular room or feature of the work to take care of, this little band of women is assembled in its annual convocation, to report the work of the preceding year, examine the results of last year's plans, and plan anew for the ensuing twelve-month.

Governor Due To-day.

Since last Thursday morning the twenty-one vice regents and their regent, Mrs. Justine Van Rensselaer Townsend, of New York City, have been holding daily sessions in the library of the old colonial mansion, and to-day they are waiting on the tip-toe of expectancy for the arrival of Gov. Swanson, of Virginia, and his accompanying delegation of State legislators, who are to make their annual visit to hear the report of the vice regents and investigate in behalf of the Old Dominion State the condition of its most treasured landmark, intrusted to the care of the association.

That there will be little, if any, fault to find with the work of the past year seems certain. Never has the beautiful old place appeared more enchanting than now, as it stands in its glorious early-summer raiment, the old mansion glistening white from among the overshadowing trees, with the golden Potomac sweeping southward and seaward at its feet. Every detail appears to be in perfect repair, from the dustless rooms in the main house to the picket-topped brick wall about the garden. The garden itself is enchanting, with its maze of neatly trimmed box tree hedges and old-fashioned, conventional flower beds, where the roses are just beginning to peer pinkly at the sunlight.

Main House Filled.

During their stay at Mount Vernon the honorary caretakers occupy the various living rooms of the main house and overflow into the quaint tiny cottages, called the quarters. The vice regent from each State is privileged to live in the room taken care of by her State's branch of the association. Their meals are taken in the large north room, also used as their council chamber. A modern range installed in the little butler's house is used to prepare the meals.

To Mrs. Townsend, the regent, is allotted the river room. Mrs. S. E. Johnson, Hudson, vice regent, occupies the room which is known as the spare room, on the third floor. Mrs. J. A. Richardson, of Louisiana, has the little room back of Washington's bedroom, and Miss Harriet Clayton Conroy, of Delaware, has the guest chamber. The famous Nellie Custis room is occupied by Mrs. Charles C. Harrison, of Pennsylvania, while Mrs. Frances S. Cassinger, of New Jersey, occupies the room in which Gen. Lafayette lived when visiting Washington.

Five of the delegates—Mrs. Rebecca B. Plaudran, of Minnesota; Mrs. J. J. Wilder, of Georgia; Mrs. Christine Blair Graham, of Missouri; Mrs. John J. Pringle, of South Carolina, and Mrs. Charles Irwin, of Ohio—lodge in the pretty spinning house at the east end of the garden. Mrs. Emma R. Ball, of Virginia; Mrs. Jennie M. Ward, of Kansas; Mrs. Elizabeth B. A. Ricketts, of Maryland; Mrs. F. J. Ricks, of Mississippi, and Mrs. John Carter Brown, of Rhode Island, have their rooms in the tiny little cottages forming the "quarters."

Have Special Duties.

During the day, after the morning session, the various committees into which the vice regents are divided go about the house and grounds, investigating the condition of that part of the estate assigned to their immediate care, and preparing their report and recommendations to be offered before the council. There are the grounds committee and garden committee, relic committee, and, in fact, committees for each detail of the work. The full report of this year's council will be ready by to-morrow or Thursday, when the regent and vice regents will return to their homes.

A feature of this year's meeting has been the addition to the collection of George Washington relics of several interesting articles presented through the vice regents of several States. From Pennsylvania, by the descendants of Admiral Thomas Ball Sullivan, C. B., who lived at Thoenpark Lodge, Lenniouth, South Carolina, England, was brought an old mirror of Washington's, taken from the White House by the admiral when the city of Washington was sacked by the British in 1814. The heirs of the admiral have presented the mirror to the association with all the interesting documents relating to it, signed by the admiral.

The vice regent of Kentucky presented an interesting book of maps published in 1807, containing a life of Washington, and describing the operations of the British and Colonial forces during the Revolutionary war. Mrs. Barrett also brought the association a teaspoon made by Paul Revere, noted patriot and silversmith.

Many Other Souvenirs.

The vice regent from New York brought a Cincinnati plate, a piece from the original service presented to Gen. Washington by the French officers at the time of his election as first president of the Order of the Cincinnati. It is of the same set that passed down through the Custis family to the family of Gen. Robert E. Lee. From New York the vice regent also brought Washington's copy of the Sentimental and Masonic Magazine, in five volumes, from July, 1792, to December, 1794, with his autograph on the title page. Charles Edgeworth Jones, of Augusta, Ga., sent, through the vice regent of that State, a marble bust of Washington that had been the property of Mr. Jones' grandmother, Mrs. Philoclea E. Ere, first vice regent from Georgia.

FAVORS OPEN VALLEY.

National Society of Fine Arts Presents Views of Rock Creek.

The views of the National Society of Fine Arts regarding the open valley treatment of Rock Creek Park, from Massachusetts avenue to the mouth of the creek, were presented to Engineer Commissioner Morrow yesterday, by J. C. Hornblower, H. Jennings, Dr. Charles W. Needham, L. W. Page, and Frederick L. Olmstead. Congress at the last session appropriated $4,000 for the preparation of plans and estimates for the treatment of Rock Creek either by the open valley method or by conduit. Opinion as to the best method is divided.

Commissioner Morrow yesterday stated that no definite conclusion will be reached for some time, as the appropriation for the preliminary work does not become available until July 1. In the meantime all parties interested will have an opportunity to submit their views on the matter to the Commissioners, by whom they will be considered before making their recommendations to Congress.

Plans for beautifying the north approach to the new Connecticut Avenue bridge by the laying out of grass lawns is under consideration by the Commissioners. In order to accomplish this, it will be necessary to fill in a ravine, and bids for this work were recently advertised, but those received were considered too high. It is the belief of the officials that it can be done without cost by contractors who desire a dumping place, and it is probable therefore, that the bids will be rejected. Approximately 15,000 square yards of earth will be required to fill the ravine.

PRESIDENT WILL SPEAK.

"The American Boy" His Topic at Friends' School Exercises.

"The American Boy," by one who knows all about him, his trials and tribulations, his merits and his faults, is the subject of an address at the commencement exercises of the Friends' School, 1899 I street, when President Roosevelt will speak to the class of 1907, on the evening of Friday, May 24. The President is to be the only speaker.

The graduates are Harold Beverly Chase, Helga Douglas, Alexander Bolling Galt, George William Lyman Prentiss, Marguerite Phillips, and Thora Mira Riley.

Receiving certificate, Le Roy Ordway King.

LAND OFFICE CLERKS OUT.

Reorganization of Staffs Disposes of Inefficient Employees.

The recommendation of Commissioner Ballinger, of the General Land Office, that a number of old and inefficient clerks be dismissed, and that clerks who are able to meet the demands of the service be employed, was yesterday approved by the Secretary of the Interior. This will result in the immediate dismissal of four employees in the division of mails and files and the appointment of new clerks as their successors, and the dismissal of thirteen clerks in the patent division, who will be succeeded by typewriter operators, in order that typewriting may be substituted for long hand in issuing and recording patents.

Commissioner Ballinger states that the reorganization is necessary in order to bring the work of the office up to date.

AFTER FERTILIZER TRUST.

Government Plans Suits in the Several States.

The Department of Justice has decided to prosecute in the several States in which they are doing business the fertilizer companies alleged to be in combination in restraint of trade.

Defendants in Virginia contended that before they could be removed from the State they should have a preliminary hearing to determine the sufficiency of the evidence upon which their removal was asked. The government fought this contention, but was overruled by the Supreme Court. It is in accordance with this court decision that the department has decided to prosecute the defendants in their several States of residence.
